

TECHNICAL SALES SUPPORT ROLE

Hamilton

Agri-feeds Ltd is a New Zealand owned company, recognised as a leading supplier of liquid feed supplements, animal health and nutrition products to the dairy sector.

We are currently seeking a Technical and Sales Support person to join our Hamilton based Technical Team. This is a newly created role that will involve providing support on various projects, managing data in the Technical/Research & Development within Agri-feeds and to provide an added dimension of technical and administration support to the Technical, Sales and Marketing areas.

The ideal candidate will have either a tertiary qualification, relevant technical or sales support experience within the agricultural sector, experience in project management, exceptional computer, organisational and time management skills and experience in quality control would also be advantageous.

You will also be known for your tact, diplomacy, high level of integrity and a positive attitude and outlook.

If this role interests you and your skills, experience and knowledge match the requirements we want to hear from you. Please email your application to agray@agrifeeds.co.nz with an up to date CV and covering letter.

Applications close 5pm, Wednesday 29 February 2012.

A full position description is available.