Commentary,

New seasons lambs wool made an appearance at the sale this morning in Napier and levels have started at roughly the same prices as they ended at last season. Although better wools were sold to reasonably solid competition we are very quickly seeing the poorer styled wools starting to struggle to find any traction. Oddments also took a price correction and fell in value quite sharply. This was the last fortnightly sale for a while and we are now on weekly sales through to mid February.

Kind regards,
Steve Fussell
