With the recent update from the Napier wool scour the wool sale today was not as challenging as it could have been. The interesting parts from the sale included poor oddment types increasing in value from a very low base by about 90% along with some of the poorer fleece wools which sold well. The rest of the better types were in most cases slightly cheaper but still sold at good levels compared to where we have seen the market. The PGG Wrightson catalogue achieved a 0% passing rate today after negotiating the price on a few lots with buyers at the conclusion of the sale.
