The first sale of the new season has opened out very strongly for an extensive and well-presented offering of mid-micron types, with buyers' having to compete at levels not seen in five years. The Xbd types were largely in buyers' favour reflecting larger volumes coming forward from Nth Island regions. A nominal volume of early season merino fleece also saw good competition from the floor, providing a positive outlook for high-country fine wool growers about to start their annual harvest of wool. Dave Burridge, South Island Auction Manager
