The North Island wool market showed a noticeable shift in favour of sellers at today’s auction, with stronger competition and improved pricing across most categories. Second shear (2/S) wool saw gains across the board, reflecting renewed buyer interest and a more optimistic tone compared to previous sales. However, bellies and pieces continued to decline, dropping another 10 cents. The overall sentiment was more positive, with a few exporters appearing more active, possibly anticipating tighter supply ahead. With the next sale not scheduled for another three weeks, this gap is expected to place additional pressure on the trade and may help sustain today’s upward movement if demand continues to build. Regards, Annabel Busby, Appraisal and Procurement Coordinator
